Install the 2 flat washers included in the kit onto the stud and install the lock bracket. Reinstall the nut and tighten. Make sure the two arms of the lock crank straddle the toggle link before you tighten the nut. Connect the rod end onto the scissor link.
3. Locate the wires to connect to. If the truck has 2 doors or access cab then the wire will be in either side kick panel. If the truck is a true 4 door (crew cab) then the wires can be located in the step plate.

4. Feed the round bullet connectors on the end of the short wiring cable into a drain hole at the bottom of the tailgate and up to the power tailgate lock. Connect them to the wires of the power tailgate lock.
5. Route the other end of the short cable to be located between the bumper and the truck bed.
6. Connect the short wire harness to the long wire harness. Locate the connector so that you can unplug the two if you need to remove the tailgate. Coil and tie the extra length of the short wiring harness inside the tailgate. Don't attach it to the truck.
7. Route the long wire harness along the frame rail and the existing wiring on the driver's side of the truck. Use cable ties to attach the harness to the existing wiring underneath the truck. Follow the existing wiring under the cab and up the firewall to the grommet at the hood-release cable.
8. Pull the wires through the grommet and lead them to the of the location of the wire found in Step 3.
9. Connect the long wiring harness wires to the factory wires using the tap connectors and test the system. Lock and unlock the doors using the power door lock switch. The two crank arms should flip the toggle link up and down to lock and unlock the scissor link. If the lock operates the oppisite of the doors, switch the two leads at the bullet connectors off the actuator.
10. The sytem is now fully installed. Perform a final check and make sure lock functions properly. If everything works, reinstall the access panel.
